

Introduction for Sharon Delaney McCloud

Sharon Delaney McCloud calls herself a citizen of the world. She's the daughter of Irish immigrants whose adventures led to them to Kenya and Tanzania where Sharon was born and lived as a young child.

Her travels took her around the globe as a member of the Department of Defense's U.S.O. program before Sharon began her career as an Emmy Award winning television journalist covering everything from NASA to politics to the Super Bowl. After 20 years in TV, Sharon founded what would become a 3-time honored INC 5000 communications firm. Now, Sharon leads professional and leadership development programs for C-Suite executives to startup founders to emerging leaders at Fortune 500 companies and beyond.

As the mother of three, Sharon considers that job her most important as she attempts keep all the balls in the air in our fast-paced lives. She's a TEDx Speaker, cancer slayer, Olympic Torch Bearer and a communications pro who inspires audiences on amplifying their impact in business and life.

Please welcome, Sharon.

